

Nedelja, 3. september: – Trpljenja si hiče ne želi. Peter je rekel Jezusu, ko jgom je govoril o svojem trpljenju in smrti, da so te ne sme zgoditi. – Bog ne daj!

Jezus je sprejel trpljenje in smrt na križu iz ljubezni do Boga Očeta in do nas, da nam je taslužil milost sprave in božjega življenja.

Jezus nas vabi k sebi. Vabi nas, naj hodimo za njim in sprejmemo križ, to je težave in neprijetnsoti življenja, da ohranimo zvestobo do njega in bi tako v zvestobi krstnim obljubam ter dobrimi deli prišli v večno življenje v Božjem kraljestvu. - Odpovedati se, pomeni pustiti ob strani, izogibati se slabim in grešnim dejanjem, da bi hodili po poti življenja za Jezusom.

“Take up his cross and follow Me”. Jesus draws the conclusions which are valid even until now: “If anyone wants to follow Me, let him renounce himself and take up his cross and follow Me”. At that time, when Jesus lived, the cross was the death sentence which the Roman Empire inflicted on marginalized persons and bandits. To take up the cross and carry it behind Jesus was the same as to accept to be marginalized by the unjust system which legitimized injustice. The Cross is not fatalism, nor exigency from the Father. The Cross is the consequence of the commitment freely taken up by Jesus to reveal the Good News that God is Father, and therefore, we all have to be accepted and treated as brothers and sisters. Because of this revolutionary announcement, Jesus was persecuted, and He was not afraid to give His life. Nobody has greater love than this: to give one’s life for his friends.
